

admin - Tue, 2/11/2014 - 16:12

The family limited partnership is a popular estate planning tool for transferring assets from one generation to the next within a family. The partnership divides a family's assets among family members.

Typically, children are given limited partnership interests in assets owned by their parents. As a result, control of the assets remains with the parents. The retention of control allows the parents to discount the value of the gift to their children, reducing gift taxes.

Print

Categories

Definitions - General Gift Planning